

Mark Harralson

Technology Development Ergonomist

Intel Corporation

BIOGRAPHY

Mr. Mark Harralson is the Technology Development Ergonomist for the Intel Corporation located in Chandler, Arizona.

He received a Master of Science degree in Industrial Engineering with a specialization in Ergonomics and Human Factors from Texas Tech University. Mark is the past chair of the Industrial Advisory Board for the National Science Foundation Cooperative Research Center for ergonomics at Texas A&M University.

Since 1997 Mark has served as the Chair of the SEMI Ergonomics task force responsible for the development of ergonomics design standards for the semiconductor industry.